Students have watched a video about belief statements and introduction to Inclusive pedagogy. They are now ready to consider questions they have about the cultures represented in their classroom.

Instructions

1. Using three index cards, write one question for each card that you have about the culture of your students, particularly your English learners, and the ways in which that culture could affect your classroom life.
2. Share your questions with four other people at a table different than your own.
3. As a whole class, with the facilitator's assistance, decide on several themes for your questions. The facilitator will post the questions in the classroom during the course.
